To whom it may concern,

Michael Lord was seen at my office on August 2, 2017 for an exam. His chief complaint was severe pain in his mouth.

Upon exam and consulting x-rays, it was determined that he has severe, generalized dental decay, multiple abscesses, and periodontal disease.

It was recommended that he have all remaining teeth removed and an immediate denture placed. He was advised not to delay treatment due to the severity of the disease.

To whom it may concern,

Randall B. Lord was seen at my office on August 8, 2017 for an exam. His chief complaint was severe pain on top right side of his mouth.

Upon exam and consulting x-rays, it was determined that he has irreversible pulpitis secondary to extensive recurrent decay in two maxillary posterior teeth.

It was recommended that he either have these teeth removed or have them root-canaled and crowned. He was advised not to delay treatment due to the severity of the disease.
